What is it?

Parker Dewey connects you to employers who offer paid Micro-Internships – small work projects where you can demonstrate your skills, explore career paths, develop your professional network and build your resume while providing value to companies! Projects are available in sales, marketing, HR, research, finance, accounting and more. Most micro-internships can be completed remotely and the average salary for a 20-hr project is around $360.

How does it help you?

Micro-internships not only allow you to work in short term projects, but it also allows you and companies to assess mutual fit should there be full-time job opportunities. Unlike a traditional internship, these projects typically range from 5 to 40 hours of work giving you an opportunity to work with various companies throughout the year to assess your skills and passions.

You may use your work authorization or a valid (not expired) ITIN to be paid by Parker Dewey as an Independent contractor. DACA or TPS are not required.
